

Looking to the Future

To keep the Seabeck Conference Center a thriving resource for the community, the Centennial Campaign provides a comprehensive answer to campus needs. A master planning process completed in 2009 identified a number of facility and site improvements that address user needs as well as conservation issues. The plan is guided by the following principles:

- Serving the wide variety of groups and people that care deeply about the Center;
- Retaining the historic character and natural environment that are unique to Seabeck;
- Focusing on the beautiful views and natural assets on and around the site;
- Providing accommodations for 250 guests in well designed facilities that can serve large, medium, and small groups;
- Upgrading accommodations to individual restrooms from dorm-like shared facilities in all sleeping houses;
- Increasing meeting spaces for multiple sized groups and usages;
- Increasing non-obtrusive parking, improving access to forest trails, and connecting walking paths between the north and south campus areas.

Over time, the Center has become a year-round operation. However, not all of the current houses are equipped for winter use. The replacement of two houses will increase year-round use 20%, allowing full capacity and improved revenue.

There is a value to humanity to have a place for people to get away and examine their lives and goals and return strengthened. That is something worth investing in. ~ Seabeck Participant
